Enthusiasm Not So Rampant on Gas Stock and Price Declines.

A reversal of form in both Washingthn Gas stock and Mitchell Mining, and continued and confident buying of Railway common were the noteworthy fea-tures of the session of the local stock board today. In the latter instance all offerings at 40 were promptly taken, and something over 100 shares at a fractional better figure, while Gas stock, which had bounded up to 59% yesterday, dropped back to 58%, and was distinctly heavy at that point. Mitchell Mining was for sale in lots to suit, and no one was allowed to go away empty handed that had orders to fil, even options being furnished at cash rates—a condition which seldom obtains as it is expected that buyers will pay a premium for the accommodation.

Capitai Traction and Mirgenthaler were also in the heavyweight class, and had every appearance of being plentiful at satisfactory prices, although there was not pressure to sell either.

Although the total sales of stock amounted up to 1,916 shares, there were but six different issues traded in, Mitchell Mining and Railway common making the bulk of the dealing.

Sales of the board, including the after-all, amounted to 1,916 shares of stock and 86,500 in bonds. Following are the sales and quotations Following are the sales and quotitions of today's market:

Admits Oregon Indictment and His Talk With

Britton.

Former Representative Binger Hermann of Oregon, who is on trial on the charge of destroying public records of the Land office, had another hard day on the winess stand.

Replying to questions from the District Attorney, Hermann said he went west in December, 1994, going to Portland, Oregon, where he was a witness before the grand jury. The defendant said he had heard that he had destroyed his letter press copy books, but did not know what charges were to be made against him.

In answer to a question from the District Attorney and in spite of Attorney. Worthington's objection, Hernann admitted that he was indicted by the Portland, Ore, grand jury in the Puter-Watson "II-7" case and the Blue Mountain reserve case.

The district attorney drew from the defendant the admission that when he, Hermann, went on his vacation as commissioner of the Land Office, he charged the Government $3 a day for subsistence, the amount allowed by law when away on official business. The defendant said he always combined official business with his vacation trips.

It was also brought out by the district attorney that while the defendant was a member of Congres he required his secretary tod ivide his salary with him. Hermann said he did' it to give an assistant to his secretary.

The defendant admitted that he had had a conversation with Mr. Britton, of the firm of Britton & Gray, Washington lawyers, about the former's testimony relative to the suspension of the Hyde-Benson land entires. It appeared that the defendant wanted Britton to testify that Hermann took the initiative in the suspension of the land entries referred to, but Britton said he could not swear to such being the case.
